RE: Ruth Hill Estate

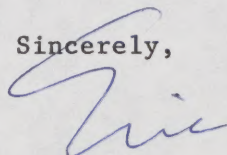

You have completed a computer printout of the items in Ruth Hill's numismatic collection from countries which begin with A and B. I have reviewed the content and, although there is much surplusage and bulk, I recommend that you complete the printout. This data will be the only specific readily available record of virtually all items in the collection. The items are individually identifiable by the serial number on the money itself and, thus, checking the content of the boxes of money and evidence of ownership can be simple and accurate whenever undertaken.

Ruth Hill entered her collection in the computer for that purpose, in our opinion. She wanted the information to be available for study by others and to be used to select items for display by others.

I realize the printout may not be needed for appraisal purposes where values can be set by grouping in many instances. There may be a few items in the collection which were not entered in the computer, but those would probably be very new acquisitions or items she did not deem important enough to list. I realize the discs could be retained and used to make a printout at any time, but it will be more time consuming to obtain information when modest requests for information or for loans occur. Then, all you need to do is to make photocopies of a few pages. If the computer entries were to be added to or deleted, the printout would become obsolete, but because the collection content will not be changed, the printout will always be usable. The fact that you have the printout on paper will go a long way to have the IRS accept the appraisal and the not-for-profit status. It will give you ability to make a rapid security check on any problem situation. A printout will save you enormous amounts of supervision time because instead of having others look at the notes, you can have them look at printout copies for selection for exhibit or study needs. Most requests should probably come from out of the city.

It is your decision, of course, and I only am trying to be protective and helpful.

Sincerely,

Eric P. Newman
